Dinosaurs 2004 Wall Calendar Smithsonian Institution National Museum of Natural History

The calendar recreates the same awe and wonder of standing under a museum reconstruction of a life-size dinosaur. From the Allosaurus to the Tyrannosaurus, each spread presents a stunning photograph of one of the famed creatures held in the National Museum of Natural History, Smithsonian Institution, in Washington, D.C. Then, at night the animals come to life when you turn off the lights - the bones glow in the dark! Also included are smaller full-color images that show the dinosaur's natural environment. With detailed captions, the result is as educational as it is fun and spooky - the perfect gift for kids of all ages.
